The viciousness of the Tiger defense soon became widely known. Not until the sixth contest of the season did the opponent reach his goal. The season average of points scored on the Tiger defense per game was a commendable 4.2. At the left, Ronnie Cole displays the bone-crushing tackle responsible for many bruises on the opposing backs.

The relaxed air of the dressing room after a successful 110% effort on the gridiron is a just reward for the devoted work and personal sacrifices required of a winner. Post-game congratulations were in order and the gleam in Coach Templeton's eye is evidence of the pride a coach feels for his boys, in any endeavor, a win or loss.
